REFERENCE: Memo from Act. Exec. to DCI, subject as above, dated 6 July 1950, copy attached.

2. Planning responsibilities are assigned as indicated below:

a. Preparation and coordination of legislation - General Counsel.

b. Preparation and coordination of requests to the Director of Selective Service System - Personnel Director. c. Preparation and coordination of desired agreement with the Office of the Secretary of Defense - Personnel Director. (Where it is considered desirable, there is no objection to the Personnel Director calling upon those officials who maintain covert operational liaison with the Office of the Secretary of Defense for assistance in obtaining agreement after actual contact with that office has been approved by the Director.)

a. All covert employees should be instructed to immediately advise their Washington offices of any orders or indication that orders might be issued calling them to active duty in the Military Establishment or inducting them therein. Upon receipt of such advice, the Personnel Director will be notified of each individual case and immediately endeavor to arrange with the military service concerned or the Office of the Secretary of Defense for the retention of the individual in his current CIA status.

b. Other individual cases requiring special exemption action in connection with procurement and retention of personnel to fill authorized positions will also be referred to the Personnel Director for action.

4. Lists of individuals desired for designation for assignment to OSO and OPC in case of national mobilization, for whom there is no current T/O authorization, will be prepared by those offices and delivered to the Personnel Director as soon as practicable. No further action will be taken in connection with this step pending further instructions from the Director.

MEMORANDUM TO: Director of Central Intelligence

Subject: Personnel Problems in the Event of a National Mobilization

1. In view of the current international situation, I called together representatives of the following Offices and Staffs on 5 July 1950 to discuss personnel problems which would be faced by CIA in the event of a national mobilization should be ordered by the President: OPC, OSO, I&SS, SSS, Personnel Director, Management, and General Counsel.

2. There were four primary problems:

a. Status of the Agency (civilian or military).

b. Status of assigned overt personnel.

c. Status of assigned covert personnel.

d. Source and status of personnel not now authorized who will be required to augment certain Agency activities.

3. a. The assembled representatives were informed that the intent of current policy is that CIA retain a civilian status in case of national emergency or war and that active uniformed personnel will be required only for specific positions which operationally require military rank. The question was raised as to whether OPC would remain under CIA jurisdiction or be removed to the jurisdiction of the Department of Defense. I stated that this question had been under continuing study for some time, that no actual decision has been reached, and that pending such decision OPC will be governed by the general policy determinations applicable to the whole Agency.

b. Our overt civilian personnel are well covered by existing agreements with both the Department of Defense and the head of the Selective Service Agency, which provide that no individual on duty as a civilian with CIA will be called either to active duty from an inactive reserve status or inducted into active service by selective service machinery without the prior concurrence of the Director of Central Intelligence. We are in the process of re-verifying these agreements and rechecking the mobilization assignments to CIA of our overt civilian personnel who hold military reserve status.

c. No provision has been made to insure retention by CIA of any of its covert personnel. Security considerations have been such that it has been considered undesirable to attempt to provide a solution to this problem until faced with a definite possible necessity.
